The coloured in notes are called crotchets. They are worth one beat. The open notes are called minims and they are worth two beats. Don't forget to count as you play.

Don't forget to support your keyboard partner with successes and next steps throughout the lesson.

Self and peer assess – when you've made improvements, perform to your teacher and log your progress.

Your next performance piece is 'Ode To Joy' by Beethoven. This uses the same notes as this piece. Don't forget to keep your hand in the correct position and use all of your fingers when playing. Use what you have learned here in your next piece!
